Holiday home in Greece: "Ride the Momentum"

The acquisition of a holiday home is a compelling dream for many people all over the world. It is a home for relaxation and enjoyment in a location different to one's permanent place of residence. Because holiday homes are only occupied at certain times of the year, owners can incur additional income through rental of their property in their absence. Every holiday home owner should consider his property as a potential investment as well as a vacation home. This is Algean's approach to property ownership. We consider every potential holiday home buyer as an investor. The Buyer makes his decision to invest a substantial amount of money for the acquisition of a real estate asset. This decision is lucrative only if the property is productive. A holiday home owner can expect a return on his investment either by renting the property or by selling it in the future on better terms. In that context, Algean's research team compared the average gross yield for prime holiday homes in the Mediterranean, one of the most desirable regions for holiday home buyers. Our analysis shows that Greek destinations are the top performers. Analytically, in the Mediterranean, Mykonos comes first with an average gross yield of 7.4%, followed by Elounda and Rhodes with 5.8% and 5.6% average gross yield respectively. The ranking continues with Chalkidiki (5.5%), the Dalmatian Coast - Croatia (5.4%), Corfu (4.8%), Porto Heli (4.8%), Tunis (4.8%), Sardinia (4.5%), Saint Tropez (4.0%), Nice (3.8%), Ibiza (3.8%), Budva - Tivat (3.6%), Cannes (3.6%), Mallorca (3.4%), Capri - Amalfi Coast (3.4%), Marbella (3.2%), Turkey -Mediterranean coast (3.2%), Paphos (3.0%), Turkey - Aegean coast (3.0%), Tel Aviv (3.0%) and Malta (3.0%).

Holiday home prices in Greece have recorded a substantial decrease of 30% - 40% in the last 6 years, due to weak demand and the lasting financial crisis. The recovery of the Greek Economy and the growing overseas demand for holiday homes is expected to gradually restore the prices to their pre-crisis level in the coming years. Our estimate concludes that the potential buyers can also expect a significant increase in the value of their properties in the near future. Additionally, the rental rates for holiday homes in Greece is expected to increase or at least remain at the current levels mainly due to the shortage of quality stock and the promising prospect of rising Greek tourism. Our advice is: "Ride the Momentum"!
